REV. TALBOT W. CHAMBERS, D. D.
- III. Salutatory, . . . . . Marguerite Merington.
- IV. Duet, "The Pale Moon," . . . . . Campana.
- SWEET is the dream of youth's fond hours,
Mem'ry delights to oft restore;
Though like Spring flow'rs, soon fading,
Fading, to bloom nevermore.
Sweet is this tranquil hour of night,
Filling each heart with peace and love,
While beam, with friendly light,
Yon moon and stars above.
Softly, softly, music around is breathing,
Waking, waking, waking the soul to bliss;
Oh! each tone is welcome on a night like this,
Welcome on such night as this,
Lighted by yonder orbs above,
And looks from those we love.
- V. Essay, . . . . . Edith Bowes.
- VI. Recitation, "The Spanish Duel," . . . Mary Macfarlane.

XI. Duet, "The Fortune Teller," . . . . . Gabussi.

WITH magic lantern in her hand,
The fortune teller now behold,
Whose fame for fortunes truly told,
Is known in every land, in every land.
Whoever in her glass will look,
Can there his fate unfold.
La

Rome, Florence, Naples, there we'll see,
Upon the polish'd mirror shine ;
The river Seine, the Thames, the Rhine,
There Canada will be, yes, there will be.

Grant her your fond compassion,
And to her in pity give ;
The orphan's prayer for you shall rise,
To her in pity give, to her your charity.

The future I can read so clear,
Predicts the coming seasons,
And give for all good reasons ;
Now who will come and hear ?

XII. Recitation, "The Curfew," . . . . . Janet Russell.

XIII. Trio, "The Star of Love," . . . . . Bordese.

XIV. Award of Diplomas, . . . . . President Hunter.

Award of Licenses, . . . . . Supt. Henry Kiddle.

XV. Solo, "The Wanderer," . . . . . Schubert.

FROM countries far away I come,
Where'er I go, where'er I go,
I find no home.
I wander on devoid of peace ;
My joys diminish, woes increase.
The sun's warm rays to me feel cold,
My life's young days seem growing old,
The blooming flowers dead and sere,
I feel a stranger ev'rywhere.
Where art thou ? where art thou ? my beloved home,
I turn to thee where'er I roam.
It makes my very heart expand
To think of thee, my native land ;
Thy cliffs so white, thy hills so blue,
Where blooms the rose and lily, too,
And early friends with hearts so true ; oh ! peace,
My joys diminish, woes increase.

XVI. Essay, . . . . . Mary Merington.

XVII. Trio, "Protect Us through the Coming Night," . . . . Curschmann.

PROTECT us through the coming night,
O Father, O Father mighty;
Deliver us from ev'ry ill, deliver us from ev'ry ill,
And guard our slumber, and guard our slumber;
O Father mighty,
Deliver us from every ill,
And guard our slumber;
Protect us through the coming night,
O Father, O Father mighty!
Deliver us from ev'ry ill,
And guard our slumber,
O Father mighty!
Protect us, O Father mighty!
Deliver us from ill, and guard our slumber.
Protect us, O Father mighty!
Deliver us from ill, and guard our slumber,
And guard our slumber.

XVIII. Essay, "The Power of Ridicule," Louise W. Wooster.

XIX. Solo, "The Maid of Judah," . . . Mary Merington.
(SECOND PRIZE.)

XX. Recitation, Scene from "As You Like It," Minnie Mason.

XXI. Trio, "Dolce Zeffiro," from "l'Elisere d'Amore," Donizetti.

XXII. Essay, "Ephesus as it Was, and Is," . . . Hester Roberts.

XXIII. Duet, "O Swallows! Happy Swallows," . . . Kücken.

XXIV. Essay, "Et Quorum pars Magna Fui," . . . Esther Baum.

XXV. Distribution of Honors, . . . Hon. William Wood.
Chairman Com. Normal College.

XXVI. Song of Praise, "Chorus a la Capella," . Schnabel.

OLORD, our God,
How great art thou!
How glorious is thy holy name!
Thee do the angels praise with song!
From ev'ry land doth praise ascend to thee!
From ev'ry land doth praise and thanks ascend to thee!
Praise and thanks to thee!

XXVII. Valedictory, . . . . . Betsey B. Davis.

XXVIII. Doxology, "The Old Hundred Psalm," Franc (1565).

CHORUS:

BE Thou, O God, exalted high;

So let it be on earth displayed
Till thou art here as there obey'd.
