BIOGRAPHY - LILLIAN D. ROBBINS - EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR, LENOX HILL NEIGHBORHOOD HOUSE

Miss Lillian D. Robbins is the Executive Director of the Lenox Hill Neighborhood House, 331 East 70th Street, New York City. When she took over the post five years ago, Miss Robbins initiated a modern group work and activity program conducted by a staff of highly trained social workers. The results of her work are shown in the case histories of the people who come to Lenox Hill for help and by the fact that the Neighborhood House has tripled its membership in the last five years. The latest figures show that Lenox Hill serves more than a thousand people of all ages, races and creeds each day.

Before coming to Lenox Hill in December, 1949, Miss Robbins was the first woman to direct one of the UNRRA (United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration) teams assigned to aid and repatriate displaced persons in Germany after the end of World War II. Later, she became UNRRA's liaison officer in China in charge of coordinating relief operations of voluntary and governmental agencies.

Prior to World War II, Miss Robbins was the Executive Director of the Jewish Association for Neighborhood Centers. Among her many accomplishments in this job ^{was} ~~were~~ the establishment of six new community centers throughout New York City. Before this, she was the Executive Director of Hamilton House in New York's lower East Side.

Miss Robbins was born in El Reno, Oklahoma. An outstanding student, she began tutoring others when she was a thirteen year old Junior in High School. Later, she worked her way through the University of Chicago, where she was graduated at the age of eighteen. Miss Robbins holds two master's degrees from Columbia University and will receive her doctorate from the same institution as soon as she is able to take time off from her work at Lenox Hill to complete her dissertation.

-MORE-

Lenox Hill's Executive Director first became interested in social work when she came to New York in 1925 to attend Columbia University. To pay her tuition, she obtained a part-time job as a bouncer at the Henry Meinhard House. Her duties included keeping undesirable children out of the House. A firm believer even in those days that a settlement house should help those who need help the most, Miss Robbins became interested in the children who were too rowdy to be admitted to Meinhard House and soon persuaded the social workers that they should be allowed to enter.

Although her present job often keeps her in the office twelve to sixteen hours a day, Miss Robbins is never too busy to talk with the many people who seek her advice and help. She is a warm, understanding and friendly person with unusual ability to inspire others and is known by her fellow social workers as one of the country's outstanding leaders in the social welfare field.

I thought you would be interested to know that Miss Robbins and several other members of the staff and House will be on the Virginia Graham Show ("Food For Thought") on Friday, November 5, from 12:30 to 1:00 P.M., channel five, to tell about what Lenox Hill Neighborhood House is doing to combat juvenile delinquency and to talk about the Campaign Drive.

LENOX HILL NEIGHBORHOOD HOUSE

EXTENDS FUND DRIVE TO NOV. 30TH

The Lenox Hill Neighborhood Association will extend its annual drive to raise its 1954-55 budget of $310,000 until November 30th, it was announced today by Mr. James M. Snowden, president of the Association.

Mr. Snowden said that the action was taken in order to give more persons interested in the work of the Association an opportunity to make a contribution.

The Association operates the Lenox Hill Neighborhood House, 331 East 70th Street. More than one thousand people take part each day in its year-'round program which includes day care for children of working mothers; a group work and club program for the 6-12 year olds, teen-agers and adults; a special program for old people; Family and Health Department, and a summer camp at Bantam Lake, Conn.

FIRST ADD LENOX HILL

In reporting the two-week extension of the campaign, Mr. Snowden explained that the $310,000 goal was the minimum figure necessary to maintain the Neighborhood House's present program. "We must be successful or else we will have to make serious reductions in the services we are now providing for people who need help the most," he said.

Mr. Snowden said that the Neighborhood House, which serves the area between 59th and 96th Streets, east of Fifth Avenue, had geared its program to combat the rising rate of juvenile delinquency in New York City.

"If the Neighborhood House is to continue to try and solve the delinquency problem in a constructive way, it must keep on reaching out to disturbed boys and girls and their parents. To do this, it must maintain its present staff of highly trained professional social workers," Mr. Snowden said.

Contributions to the Neighborhood House may be made through checks made payable to the Lenox Hill Neighborhood Association, 331 East 70th Street. All donations are tax deductible.

The Association is a non-profit, non-sectarian organization which was founded sixty years ago by the Associate Alumnae of Hunter College. Miss Lillian D. Robbins is Executive Director.

A Real Thanksgiving

To the N. Y. Herald Tribune:

As Thanksgiving approaches, we at Lenox Hill Neighborhood House are once again hoping to make this holiday one of real meaning for the many elderly men and women who belong to our Friendship Club.

All the members of this club are past fifty-five and most of them are in their late seventies or early eighties. Unfortunately, their daily life is not a very happy one. Although they rarely talk about their troubles, most of them live alone in cold-water tenements on Social Security or Old Age Assistance.

Lenox Hill has tried to cheer up their lives by providing a second home where they can come three times a week for a hot lunch and to visit with their friends, play games or just relax in the friendly, warm atmosphere of the Neighborhood House. In addition, every Tuesday evening there is a real old-fashioned party where they have a wonderful time singing around the piano and doing some very lively folk dances to music provided by more talented members.

Lenox Hill House Sixty This Year Serves All Ages

(From time to time, the Bulletin, will attempt to acquaint Parents League members with the history and activities of other important civic groups).

Lenox Hill Neighborhood House was founded in 1894 by the Associate Alumnae of Hunter College. It began as a kindergarten in a small room in a mission. Since that time, it has had three homes and has greatly expanded its program and facilities to meet the increasing needs of the community. The present building was built in 1928 and unlike most settlement houses, was designed for the purpose it serves. Its facilities include two gyms, swimming pool, a theatre, ceramics and woodwork shops and lounges for children and adults. All the programs at the Neighborhood House are under the supervision of Miss Lillian D. Robbins, Executive Director, and a highly trained staff of social workers and teachers.

The Association, now celebrating its sixtieth anniversary, has launched a double-barreled campaign for funds to carry on its program in the coming year and to raise a million dollars for a ten-year development fund.

The Annual Drive is to raise the 1954-55 budget of $310,000. The campaign for the million dollar development fund is to expand the agency's services.

In discussing the importance of the drive, Mr. Snowden, president of the Association, stressed that the area surrounding the Neighborhood House is among the highest juvenile delinquency rate districts in the city.

"Lenox Hill's whole program can be viewed as a war against delinquency," Mr. Snowden said. "Troubled youngsters can be spotted at an early age in our day care center. The after-school program for the 6-12 year olds and the teen-age program deal with the very heart of the delinquency problem. And the adult program is important because of the influence of the parent upon the child."

The Association operates the Lenox Hill Neighborhood House at 331 East 70th St. More than 1,000 people participate daily in its program for all ages, races and creeds. Year-round services include a day care center for children of working parents; a family service and health department which helps people with emotional and physical problems; a summer camp at Bantam Lake, Conn., and an extensive group work and activity program.

Among other things, monies from the ten-year development fund would be used to:

1. Expand Lenox Hill's program for combatting juvenile delinquency. This will include sending trained staff workers into neighborhood streets to work directly with teen-age gangs.
2. Increase the current program of the settlement house from five to seven days a week. This would mean that the facilities of Lenox Hill would be available on weekends when there is an urgent need for them.
3. Repair and improve the physical plant.

Thanksgiving Gifts Sought for Oldsters

The Lenox Hill Neighborhood Association is making its annual drive for donations to the Thanksgiving party of the Friendship Club, a group ranging in age from 55 to 85.

The 1954 program is somewhat more ambitious than that of previous years. The association hopes to garner enough to invite members of the English class for newcomers to share in the traditional American Thanksgiving Day with members of the club itself.

They Barely Exist

The Friendship Club is composed primarily of elderly men and women living in cold water flats and barely existing on slim pensions or social security.

The club offers them an opportunity for relaxation, to meet their friends thrice weekly at luncheon, to sun themselves on the veranda of the Lenox Hill Neighborhood House at 331 E. 70th St. and gather for a social evening on Tuesdays.

Summer Vacations

In summer the neighborhood house affords them a 10-day vacation at the house's camp on Bantam Lake in Connecticut.

But the big day for all of them is Thanksgiving and they are particularly anxious this year to bring home the spirit of this essentially American holiday to the lonely and bewildered of other lands who will this year be celebrating their first Thanksgiving.

"They don't realize they're

News of Children's Activities Here and Abroad

Family Night's First Birthday Marked at Lenox Hill Party

No glowing white candle atop a fancy cake was needed on Friday to commemorate the first birthday of Family Night at the Lenox Hill Neighborhood Association, 331 East Seventieth Street. The occasion was more than satisfactorily observed with cider and doughnuts, plus a lively square-dance session and a quantity of merriment, at a pre-Thanksgiving holiday program shared by 100 parents and children.

Entertainment at the center, however, on Family Night, held every other Friday, is not confined to cultivating such purely social pursuits as dancing. Families can share activities that vary from woodworking, ceramics and painting to swimming, a fast game of volley-ball or a quiet round of checkers.

Although most of these activities were pursued by the group last Friday, children and parents both spent the earlier part of the evening making fanciful mobiles and crepe-paper streamers to decorate the gymnasium for the square-dance attraction.

The program originated simply because the parents in the neighborhood wanted an evening set aside "for the whole family," according to Miss Lillian D. Robbins, the association director. Many parents had young children to care for at home and could not even take part in the center's regular adult program, she explained.

Membership now totals eighty families and there is hope of tripling this number in the coming year. Members range from 4 years old to 65—including the grandparents who occasionally put in an appearance. The parents have the final word in planning the year's program through an active program committee and share the chores of preparing refreshments.

Even though parents and children can go their separate ways to take part in any one kind of activity that may be their own special interest, the usual procedure by most of the families is "to enjoy things together."

"I think this helps the families learn to get along better," Mrs. Thomas Lee, the mother of 9-year-old Thomas Richard, commented. "It means that each of us has to compromise in taking turns sharing the things the other members of the family may like."

The program, though, is flexible enough and offers enough variety, she added, so that every one can be satisfied.

Some of the parents have learned a lot from their own children, Miss Robbins said. The youngsters get a tremendous kick out of "teaching" their mothers and fathers things they have learned how to do and make in the woodwork shop or in the ceramics room, she explained.

For a good many of the families, she added, this is the only opportunity that exists for them to share an evening out in relaxation and fun right in their own neighborhood.

100 Oldsters Enjoy Repast At Lenox Hill

More than one hundred members of Lenox Hill's Friendship Club for elderly people enjoyed a traditional Thanksgiving Dinner at the Lenox Hill Neighborhood House, 331 East 70th Street, last Friday.

The Thanksgiving party, an annual custom at the Neighborhood House, began at 1 p. m. when a complete turkey dinner was served. The afternoon program included singing, dancing and story telling.

All the food for the dinner, including the turkeys, was supplied by Miss Hewitt's Classes, the Hunter Elementary School and other friends of the Neighborhood House.

The Friendship Club is part of Lenox Hill Neighborhood House's program for older people. All members must be over fifty-five and the majority are in their seventies and early eighties. Club members come to the Neighborhood House three days a week for a hot lunch and to participate in activities at the House, and one evening a week for a song and dance fest. In addition, the old people spend a ten-day vacation every fall at Lenox Hill's camp on Bantam Lake, Conn. The club's facilities include two lounges and a roof terrace which the members have decorated with flower boxes and gay umbrella tables.

Lenox Hill Neighborhood House is a non-profit, non-sectarian organization which serves more than a thousand people of all ages every day. It was founded sixty years ago by the Associate Alumnae of Hunter College.

FROM OUR PRESIDENT

Dear Fellow Alumnae:

It has occurred to me that you might like to know of some of the duties that devolve upon the office of the Alumnae President.

A few weeks ago I was invited, as your representative, to attend a reception which the Mayor and Mrs. Wagner gave at Gracie Mansion for all the workers for the Sixtieth Birthday Campaign for the Lenox Hill Neighborhood Association. Robert Montgomery spoke of the fine work of Lenox Hill and the need for increased funds. Now Lenox Hill is open only five days a week. Contributions will make it possible to expand the services of the House and to keep it open all through the week. Lenox Hill is situated in a section of the city where help for young people, supervised activity in their leisure time, is of the utmost importance.

Hunter may be proud of what many Alumnae have done for Lenox Hill, under Mrs. Graff's direction, with the inspiration of her leadership. Lenox Hill, we should never forget, was founded by Hunterites. Let us all remember Lenox Hill's need, particularly this year.

Recently, I have had the pleasure of meeting Hunterites in other cities. In the course of a trip west, I met with the officers of the Los Angeles Chapter, who were very eager for news from New York. They told me that they were planning a College Birthday Luncheon to coincide with our big party in New York on February 12th. When I told them about the film "695 Park Avenue", the Los Angeles people begged me to arrange to have it sent out there for a showing at their birthday party.

When I was down south in September, I met a group of Hunter graduates who are very eager to form a Chapter in Miami.

I am sure that the activities of the growing number of Alumnae Chapters will bring added renown to the College and to our Association.

With all good wishes for the coming holidays and the New Year,

Sincerely,

FRANCES R. ABRAMS
President

OUR BIRTHDAY GIFT

Join in a Happy Birthday!

The folder which you recently received states, "Very early in the history of the College the Associate Alumnae had begun to take a special interest in building the college library." Now, as the 85th birthday of the College approaches, we once more find that the library is greatly in need of books.

It has therefore been decided that books in the amount of $850 would be appropriate as an 85th Birthday Gift from the Associate Alumnae.

We hope you will help us raise this sum by sending a contribution to Edna Lewinson, Chairman of the College Birthday Gift Committee, 49 East 65th Street, New York 21. Please make checks payable to the Associate Alumnae of Hunter College.

LENOX HILL COMMITTEE

The Dinner and Bridge on November 10 for the benefit of Lenox Hill Settlement proved a most enjoyable affair, for a spirit of comradeship and interest prevailed that made for a social success.

College Faculty and Staff, High School and Elementary School, joined with our Alumnae and Lenox Hill Board to celebrate the 60th birthday of Lenox Hill Settlement.

The Student Council had organized "Tag Day", and throughout the College girls were wearing little ivy leaves to show that they, too, had participated in the celebration. We are indebted to its President, Mrs. Schwartz, and to its Chairman, Miss Silverplate, for their unusual cooperation, and thank them sincerely.

About 180 dinners were served — soup, turkey, dessert, and coffee. How did we do it? I don't know. But I do know that the entire credit must go to Miss Birdie Kallman and Mrs. Louise Stern, through whose efforts the dinner was cooked and served.

I think you will be interested to know that part of the story of what Lenox Hill Neighborhood House is doing will be told on:

Indian-Fighters Camp, Swim, Fish

By CAROL TAYLOR,
Staff Writer.

Before 9 a.m. today, 88 children equipped with fishing poles, knapsacks and swim suits bounded into the Lenox Hill Neighborhood House at 331 E. 70th St. There were no stragglers.

If you had followed this crew through an 8-hour day, as we did, you wouldn't feel sorry for city-stranded children. Not this 88, anyway.

For the Lenox Hill Neighborhood Assn., serving Yorkville operates one of 29 play schools in the city for kids who can't get out of town for the summer.

And the day is so jammed full of swimming and Indian-fighting and showering and cooking out of doors and excursions that no child who attends wears the worn, limp look of the legendary summer city dweller.

Songs First.

First stop was the gym where the kids settled their breakfasts with a good song fest. After "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," they bounced off to their home rooms for an hour of the more quiet activities such as Chinese checkers, chess, sewing, store-keeping, rope jumping, coloring, doll-dressing, etc.

The children, 6½ to 10, are divided into groups of 10 or 12 according to age, said Miss Muriel Fiske, the director. The formal program lasts from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily. But the majority of "students" have working mothers and many remain until 5:30 or 6 so Mama can pick them up on the way home.

Each group is "mothered" or "fathered" by an experienced leader, most of whom are graduate students or veteran social workers.

While the youngest kids took their turn splashing in the big swimming pool in the basement under the eye of a Board of Education swimming instructor, the other children took to the sunny play roof or to the carpenter shop or the arts and craft room.

Some took off for a day's ex-

Talks Resumed On GE Wages

The General Electric Co. and the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers resumed negotiations today on a union demand for a $10,000,000 annual fund to create a guaranteed annual wage.

A company spokesman said yesterday that "full and serious consideration" would be given the proposal. He said the company wanted to settle on "the right and fair thing to do for the good of all concerned in our particular situation."

John H. Callahan, chairman of the union's GE conference committee, said the union had given formal notice that it would terminate its contract Sept. 15.

cursion— to Central Park or Ward's Island or Staten Island.

Leader Jim Barnett's group of 7-year-olds was hiking to Central Park where, according to Mr. Barnett, "we're going to spend the day playing Davy Crockett. Just run around and have a whale of a time. They like to shoot each other and take the Alamo."

The 9-year-old girls, with their leader, Miss Ann Ross, went off shopping for curtain material to decorate their home room.

On the roof, Leader Don Wiepert's group of 8-year-old boys was sunbathing and cycling after being "kind of busy in the home room making Indian things. We've got a tepee half made and all of us have Indian hats."

Indoor Picnic.

These kids were anticipating the morrow when, Mr. Wiepert confided, they'd cook their own lunch of hot dogs, baked potatoes and beans over the fireplace in their home room.

Miss Fiske said there's a lot of cooking done in Lenox Hill center. The terraced brick building boasts three kitchens, and the children experiment on such easy dishes as spaghetti, cup cakes, gelatin desserts and salads.

And the nicest thing about the Lenox Hill Play School is that it's a harbinger of even nicer things to come.

For, after six weeks of the school, all the children will go to the association's summer camp, Camp Lenox Hill, in Bantam, Conn., for three weeks to get in real tip-top shape for next fall's school term.

Letters To The Editor

Grateful Camp Says "Thanks"

"To the Editor:

"May a grateful out-of-state social agency, the Lenox Hill Neighborhood House of New York City, extend its profound thanks to the many public-spirited people in the Bantam-Litchfield area who came to the aid of our Lenox Hill Camp at Bantam Lake during the flood. Your readers will recall from the excellent news coverage of your paper the story of the emergency evacuation of our eighty-five young campers which had to be made by boat at Sandy Beach. The children and most of their belongings were then returned safely home by a caravan of volunteer cars from New York City.

"Our great thanks goes to the Bantam Volunteer Fire Department who organized the evacuation and helped care for our youngsters. The Bantam and Litchfield Red Cross also deserve our great thanks for the role they played as well as the Connecticut state and local police. The Forman School, the Litchfield School for Boys and Girls, and the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion provided both shelter and food. We should also like to thank Mr. Arthur Ceder and the staff and Board of the White Foundation which contributes the camp facilities to Lenox Hill for their wonderful and continued cooperation.

"There are many more individual citizens whom we would like to thank personally for the role they played. Let it suffice to say that we shall long remember and be grateful for the neighborliness which our Connecticut friends showed this New York neighborhood house."

LENOX HILL NEIGHBORHOOD ASSOCIATION

331 East Seventieth Street

* On the 21st of August a group of children were brought home by a caravan of 26 neighborhood cars after having been evacuated from the flooded Lenox Hill Camp near Litchfield and Torrington, Conn. Fortunately every child and staff member of the Lenox Hill Neighborhood Association's camp was safe and sound.

Now, however, the association faces the fact that there is a great loss of clothing by children and staff. Huge supplies of food contaminated from lack of refrigeration have been destroyed and there is a heavy loss of property and equipment.

A tragic situation now exists for the children of Lenox Hill. In almost every case, clothing at the camp constituted the entire summer wardrobe of the children. Most of the families are in the low economic group where day-to-day demands are often more than the families can meet. To replace a complete summer wardrobe for one or two children is impossible without financial assistance.

The loss of food supplies and equipment at the camp is placing a tremendous strain on the slender resources of Lenox Hill House.

James M. Snowden, president of the Lenox Hill Association is issuing an urgent appeal to all readers who were unaffected by the tragic floods to help meet this emergency. A contribution in any amount will be most helpful. Checks may be made payable to the Lenox Hill Neighborhood Association and sent to Mr. Snowden at 331 East 70th Street, New York 21. All gifts are deductible for tax purposes.

Ask Help For Child Campers

New Yorkers, fortunate that the mammoth floods of Hurricane Diane passed them by, were asked Tuesday to help the children of hard-hit Lenox Hill Camp—and the camp itself—by donating aid. The youngsters were evacuated Sunday from the flooded camp, between Litchfield and Torrington, Conn., in a caravan of 26 neighborhood cars, but their possessions were lost. Also flooded out was the bulk of the camp's food and equipment.

JAMES M. SNOWDEN, president of the Lenox Hill Neighborhood Assn., appealed for funds to help the children, who come from low-income families, replace their clothing and help the camp rebuild. Donations may be sent to Snowden at 331 E. 70th St., New York 21.

Dienbienphu's 'Angel' Here To Fulfill Her Siege Vow

Mlle. Geneviève de Galard-Terraube, French nurse who received a Broadway ticker-tape welcome as "the Angel of Dienbienphu" last year, returned quietly to New York yesterday to study methods of rehabilitation of war wounded.

The smiling, brown-haired French heroine arrived at Idlewild Airport aboard an Air France plane at 11:34 a. m. from her home in Paris, shunning publicity. She was attired in an unadorned blue suit and black pumps, and was hatless.

Mlle. de Galard will begin an in-service training course in nurse care of the physically handicapped at the Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation of Bellevue Medical Center on Monday.

Resolution to Study

Her studies, she said, are the result of a resolution she made while caring for wounded during the fifty-one-day siege of the Indo-China fortress. She told herself at that time that she would some day study how a veteran who has been disabled through loss of a limb can rebuild his life.

"So many lost an arm, or a leg," she said. "I thought of what they would become after the war, for the problem for them was not over."

Dislikes Publicity

"This is not," she added, slowly translating French word images into hesitant English, "an official voyage. It is a private one. I do not like publicity, or stories about myself, because I like to be exactly like my comrades, the other flying nurses."

Mlle. de Galard was invited to the Center by its officials last year when she visited it. Her trip is co-sponsored by Atlantique, a United States-French scholarship exchange program for medical, social and other professional workers, and the Institute of International Education.

Back to Indo-China

Mlle. de Galard related that after visiting her mother in Paris in July, 1954, she returned as an Air Force nurse to Indo-China, serving until November. From then until May she was posted as a flying nurse aboard military planes ferrying between France and its possessions in Africa.

She finished her tour at Madagascar and has been given an indefinite leave, with an invitation from military officials to return to duty. She was a flying nurse for two and a half years.

With her United States training, she would like to be posted at Les Invalides Hospital in Paris, site of Napoleon's Tomb.

Not Writing a Book

Mlle. de Galard declared that she was not writing a book about her experiences, and when asked about marriage plans she replied: "That's my private life and should not be in the newspapers."

While in New York Mlle. de Galard will reside at Lenox Hill Neighborhood Association, 331 E. 70th St. She will remain here six months to a year. Today her time will be filled with a sight-seeing tour of the city.

Heroine of Dienbienphu Arrives Here For 10-Month Training in Rehabilitation

Mlle. Geneviève de Galard-Terraube gave a practical demonstration yesterday of the kind of quiet determination and courage that made her the heroine of the siege of Dienbienphu.

As she arrived here on another mission of mercy—to learn rehabilitation methods to take back to hospitalized French soldiers—she politely sidestepped efforts to revive the heroine's welcome she received here last year.

She is here, the 30-year-old nurse announced, to study, not, s'il vous plait, for publicity. She said this gently and firmly as she arrived at 11:34 A. M. at New York International Airport, Idlewild, Queens, and prepared for a ten-month training period at the Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation of New York University-Bellevue Medical Center.

The petite nurse, whose determination survived the fifty-six-day siege of the garrison in Indochina, repeated her wishes again as she arrived at Lenox Hill Neighborhood Association, 331 East Seventieth Street, to take up residence in the small fifth-floor room she will occupy during her stay here.

Her main objective, said Mlle. de Galard-Terraube, was decided during the siege of Dienbienphu. It was heightened during her three-week American tour when she made a visit to the institute, which is directed by Dr. Howard A. Rusk.

"I decided it at Dienbienphu," said Mlle. de Galard-Terraube. "I thought, then, 'Well, the war is over, but it is not over for them'—the ones who were wounded."

She spoke in praise of the rehabilitation program at Les Invalides in Paris and suggested that she might apply her knowledge there.

Mlle. G. de Galard-Terraube

The former French Air Force nurse, who appeared in a dark blue tailored suit and a lighter blue striped blouse, recently completed her second enlistment and will take her training on a scholarship from the institute.

Until she begins her training as a floor nurse at the institute next Monday, Mlle. de Galard-Terraube is pleased she will have time for sight-seeing, which was impossible during her last visit here.

YORKVILLE GROUP ASKS HOUSING AID

Finds High-Rent Apartments
Are Driving Lower-Income Families Out of Area

'EMERGENCY' REPORTED

Help in Relocating Tenants, Cheaper Developments and Delayed Evictions Urged

A Yorkville neighborhood committee urged city and state officials yesterday to help low-income families who are being squeezed out of the East Side community by the boom in high-rent apartment buildings.

"A housing emergency has developed in Yorkville for low-income and lower middle-income groups of long-time residents," the committee found. It suggested that eviction proceedings be delayed, that tenants receive official help in finding new homes, and that planners consider ways of bringing less expensive new housing into the area.

The committee was organized by the Lenox Hill Neighborhood House, 331 East Seventieth Street. A Lenox Hill board member, R. Fulton Cutting 2d, was chairman. The members included representatives of Yorkville churches, schools, hospitals, neighborhood houses and the Chamber of Commerce, and of the City Welfare Department and the New York Real Estate Board.

Among the members were Stanley M. Isaacs, minority leader of the City Council, and Assemblyman Herman Katz. Mr. Isaacs is president of the United Neighborhood Houses of New York and a former Borough President of Manhattan.

Long a German Community
Yorkville, which the committee defined as the area from Fifty-ninth to Ninety-sixth Street between Fifth Avenue and the East River, has traditionally housed many families of German and Middle European origin. Newer, higher rent apartment houses were on the fringes— from Park to Fifth Avenue and near the river. In the center were less expensive tenements and brownstones.

Many of the brownstones have been demolished since World War II to make room for large, high-rent buildings, and more are going. The Yorkville committee said 100 buildings, housing 2,000 persons, were now scheduled for demolition. The committee made a pilot study of seventy families in these buildings and reported these major findings:

¶ Almost half of the families had at least one invalid, and 47 per cent of the persons were under 5 years old or over 60.

¶ Families almost all wanted to continue living in Yorkville because of cultural ties, convenience to clinics and other reasons, but accommodations were hard to find.

¶ Of twenty-three families who relocated, only six remained in Yorkville. Average monthly rent for the twenty-three families rose from $29.90 before moving to $49.90 afterward.

The committee recommended that a central City Relocation Bureau be set up to find new housing for families displaced by private builders. Official help is already provided for persons moved out by public housing.

Ask City, State Aid Yorkville Rehouse 2,000

A special committee organized by the Lenox Hill Neighborhood House has appealed to the city and state to aid the plight of Yorkville residents who are being displaced by high-rent apartments.

A survey headed by R. Fulton Cutting 2d found that at present 100 buildings housing 2,000 persons in the area are slated for demolition, with no comparable low or middle-rent housing available.

The committee said it found that many Yorkville residents were reluctant to leave their old neighborhood, but could not afford the new housing going up there.

It asked officials to plan less expensive new housing to Yorkville, and to delay eviction proceedings and help find other apartments for those evicted.

Meanwhile, Gov. Harriman met with a special advisory council to the State Commission Against Discrimination. The new 31-member council is headed by James H. Scheuer, chairman of the executive committee of the City and Suburban Homes Co.

HOUSING CENSUS IS URGED ON CITY

Abrams Finds Clearance of Slums Slowed and Cites
Perils in Overcrowding

State Rent Administrator Charles Abrams called yesterday for a housing census to determine the city's needs and for a survey of vacant land to seek new sites.

The city's slum areas, he said, "are moving fast toward an irreducible slum core." He declared that slum clearance was slowing because of "the increasing inability of relocating the population to be displaced by clearance operations."

Mr. Abrams addressed the annual all-day conference of the United Neighborhood Houses, made up of local settlement houses. Three hundred persons met at Lenox Hill Neighborhood House, 331 East Seventieth Street.

The housing census that the official recommended already has been undertaken in Buffalo, Rochester, Schenectady and Albany. Mr. Abrams said if a survey showed this city was land-poor, it was perhaps advisable to look into the possibilities of building towns outside, as London has done.

"The slum core is being broken up into smaller and smaller spaces," he said, "and as slum clearance, urban renewal and private demolition are proceeding, it is receiving an increasing proportion of the city's low-income population. Overcrowding and absence of privacy have become the two most serious aspects of slum life today.

"The concept of the word 'slum' as a description of a sordid building or neighborhood is obsolete. The statistics of the Nineteen Thirties in which slums were said to cause disease, juvenile delinquency, infant mortality, crime and premature mortality are obsolete because they emphasized the physical condition of buildings rather than overcrowding.

"Slum clearance which emphasizes slum demolition should be redefined to encompass clearance of overcrowding which can be accomplished best by emphasizing vacant land operations. The old claim that juvenile delinquency would disappear if we built new housing is clearly unfounded when the Housing Authority evicts families with juvenile delinquents from its projects."

Mr. Abrams said housing was only a part of a much greater problem. He said it was involved with "obsolete boundaries, regional and interstate needs, suburban sprawl, migrations, fiscal difficulties, minority tensions and the whole complex of urban and suburban life today."

John J. Horwitz, consultant to Deputy Mayor Henry Epstein, summarized Mr. Epstein's report to Mayor Wagner last May, "Perspectives on Delinquency Prevention." He said that the city already had appropriated $1,440,000 for services recommended in the report.

Dean Kenneth D. Johnson of the New York School of Social Work denounced the practice of appointing probation officers on a religious-quota basis to the Children's Court.

Small Fighters Take Big Swings for Honor and Glory

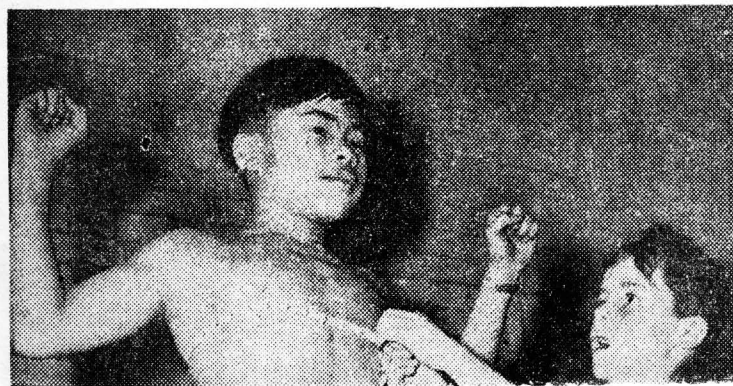

Mighty Mickey McElroy, 9-year-old entrant of the Benjamin Harrison Recreational Center, fought in the 70-pound class, managed by his sister, Pat, 8. He lost. Mickey's mother (right) and another sister, Helen, 6, came to watch. Almost 150 kids from fifteen youth groups participated.

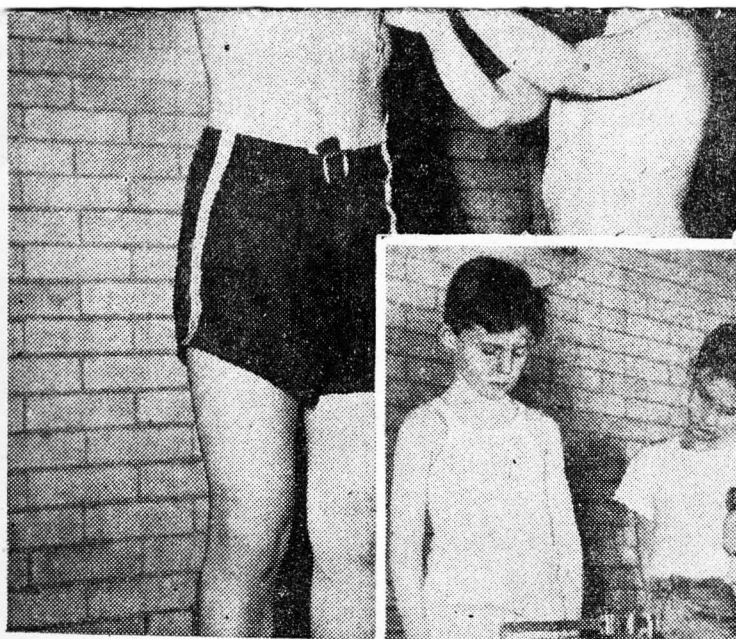

Just before spring city kids who've been cramped up all winter feel burstings of energy. After twenty-three years the Boys Athletic League knows the signs, sagaciously puts on its annual boxing tournament when the sap starts running. The prize is the Eddie Eagan trophy, won this year by the Catholic Boys Club of Harlem, whose moderator, the Rev. Frank Dohman, receives it (above) from State Boxing Commissioner Eagan. Two of the club's champs, Richard Adams, 11, and Tony Anthony, 14, are on Father Dohman's right.

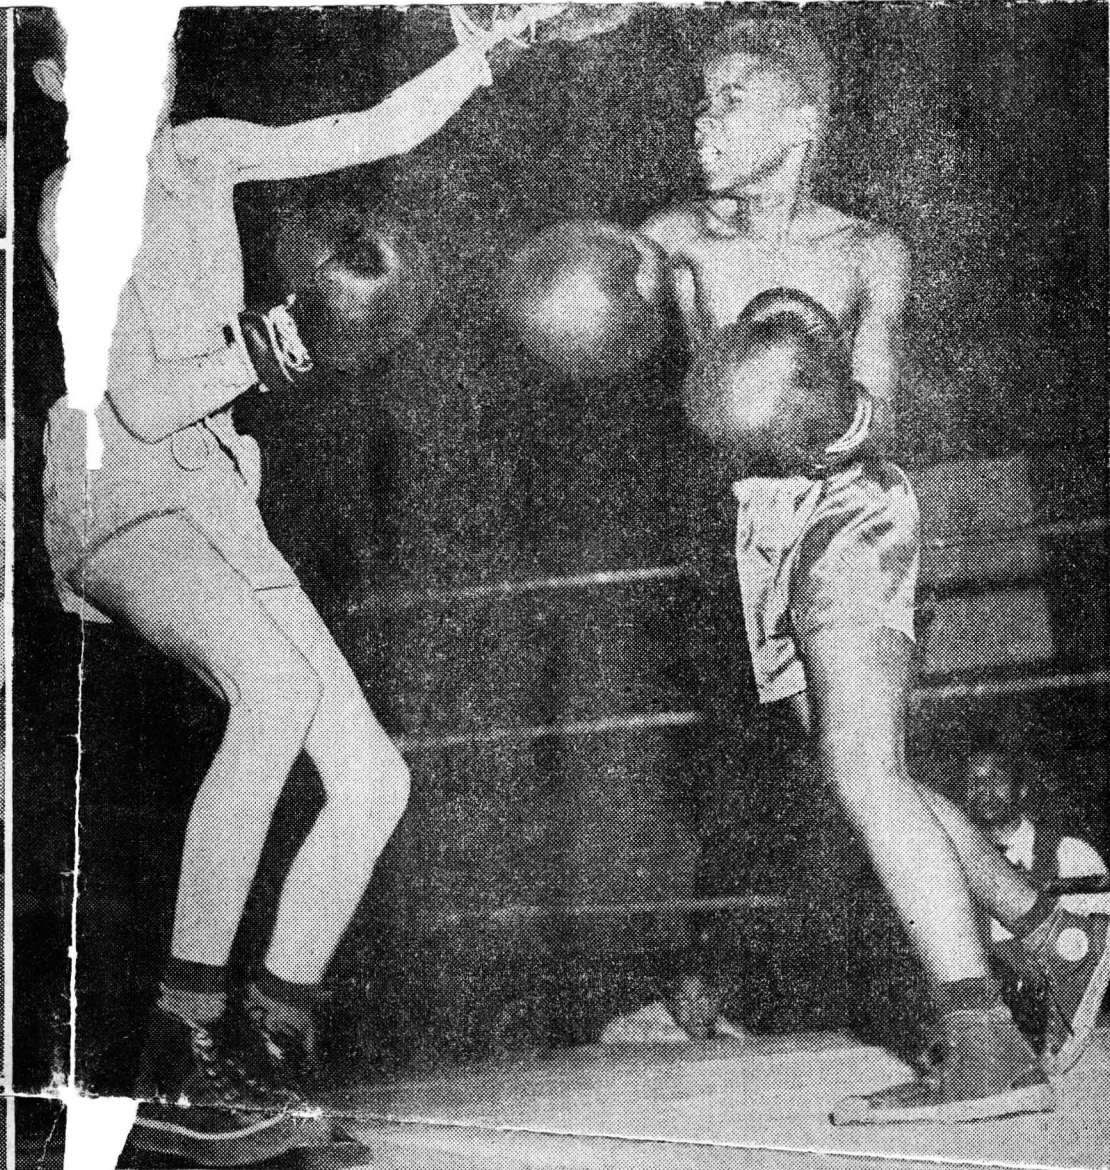

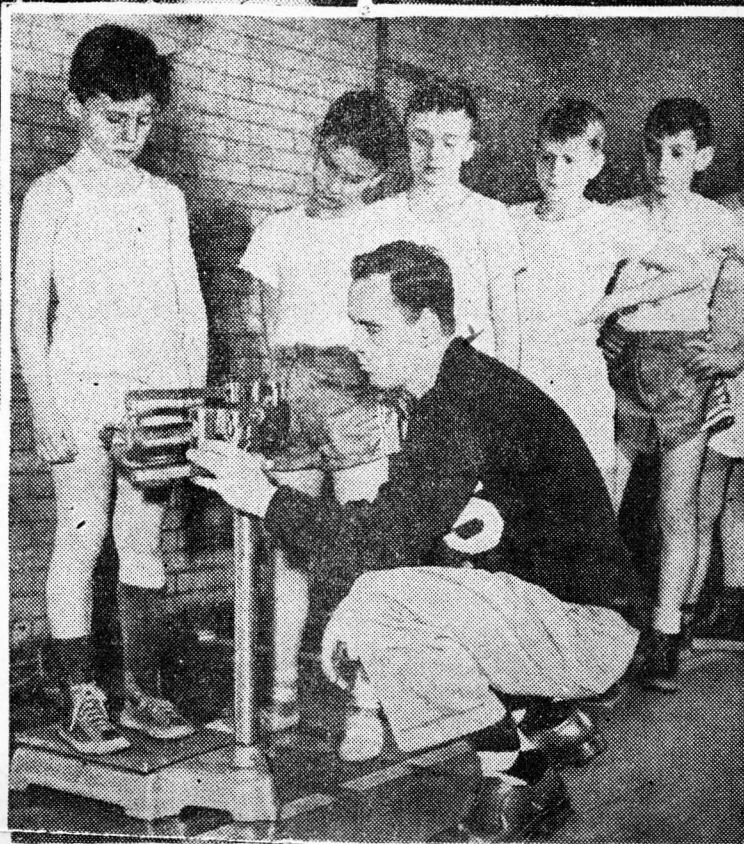

Fights lasted three rounds, one minute each with one-minute rest periods during which rooters like Joan Barone, 11 (above), jumped in with water and advice. Her man, Anthony Racioppi, won.

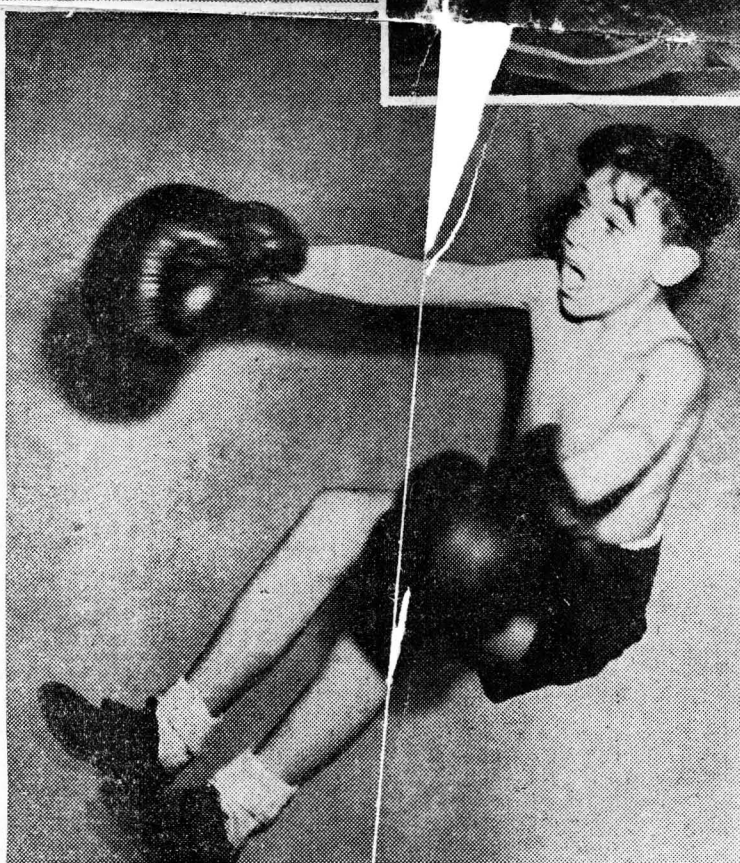

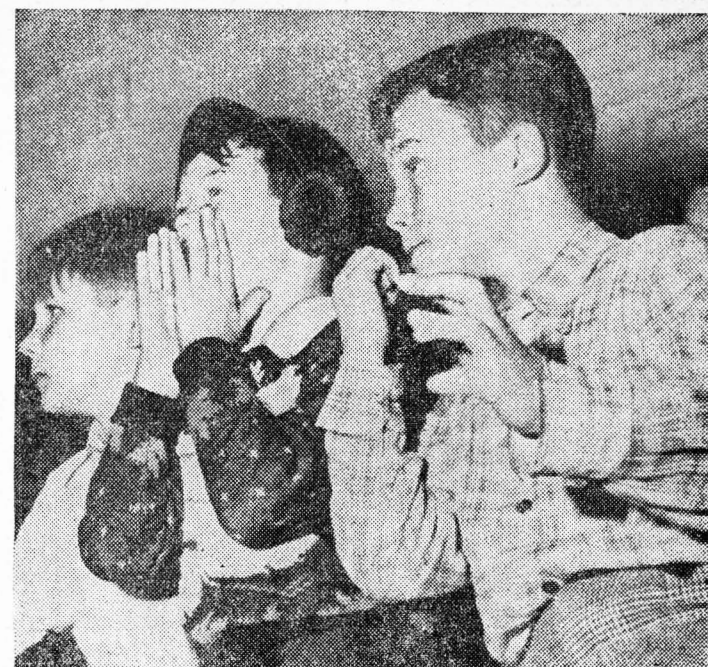

One shoe half unlaced, Robert Martin, 8, of the Benjamin Harrison Recreation Center, smallest boy in the tournament, weighs in for the 70-pound class (right). Below, shoe still open, he takes evasive action from 9-year-old Harold Richardson. Referee stopped this one after a minute and thirty-nine seconds. Harold scored a technical knockout—there weren't any real ones. Above, Robert measures Bob Jung of the Lenox Hill Settlement, tallest boy entered. All fighters had a physical examination.

Moving in with fists swinging is Wade Linburg, 11, winner over Frank Vanton in the 80-pound class. There were seven weight classes, from 65 to 105 pounds.

Startled Dominick Cusumano, 11, goes down. He fought like a tiger but lost in the 70-pound class. Boys Athletic League also runs summer camps. It's supported chiefly by private donations.

Various moods are shown by young fans who came to root for their favorites from Manhattan, the Bronx and Brooklyn. The matches were held in the Lenox Hill Settlement, 331 East 70th street.
