

The Lady is More Than a Counselor

By Maria E. Heywood

Anne Joseph-Dunbar, often called "Lady Anne," is certainly deserving of the many honors she receives for her undying and self-sacrificing efforts to enhance the quality of the American society.

At Hunter College Anne Dunbar serves as Assistant to the Board of Higher Education Officer, SEEK Liaison in the Financial Aid Office and is also a Financial Aid Counselor. However, Ms. Dunbar's work here is only a fraction of her daily activities. After Lady Anne leaves her office her at 5 pm, she generally attends meetings or confers privately with politicians in her quest to attain the attention and aid she feels is essential to insure the rehabilitation of the imprisoned.

Five years ago, Lady Anne formed the Break-Thru in Art Organization. The Organization serves as a liaison between men and women behind prison walls and the "outside" community. Break-Thru In Art is primarily geared toward the promotion, display and selling of the artistic creations of imprisoned men and women.

Lady Anne appears to possess a reserve of energies for good causes. Through her involvement at the Green Haven Prison she became acquainted with three inmates—Stanley Ford, Roger ship Fund which provides aid to students in the Department of Black and Puerto Rican Studies at Hunter. The success of the personal efforts of Lady Anne "to mesh the two worlds together in communications" is evident by the creation of the fund.

"Lady" Anne Dunbar; honored for her rehabilitative work.

ENVOY photo/Anna Maria Kostro

Lady Anne Joseph-Dunbar has been honored for her work by the Child Development. She has been presented the Claire Joseph King Memorial Citation for "devoted and compassionate service to the community," and the "Each One Teach One" Community Service Award by the Harlem Professionals. Lady Anne recently served as President of the Parkchester Branch of the NAACP.

her biography published in the first edition of Who's Who Among Black Americans 75-76.

Lady Anne's family consists of her retired mother and her ten-year-old son Christopher. Although her parents are of West Indian ancestry, Lady Anne was born and raised in Manhattan. The title "Lady" is derived from a Science Organization, 1 PM.

Wednesdays

Hunter College Greek Club Features: Dance with two great bands (The Vips & The Stitch in the Hunter Publications Board, but to create a workable means