Whirlwind Campaign.

Hopeful anticipation is to become happy realization. Our new settlement house is to be a fact. In a few weeks the corner stone is to be laid. This long hoped-for event has been made possible by the united efforts of all who have been interested in the welfare of the house, the old friends and the new.

A whirlwind campaign, to operate for ten days, was organized with headquarters at the Savoy Hotel. The captains and their teams of nine members each, with the executive committee, met daily for luncheon at this hotel, and made their reports. It was most inspiring to see the increased interest in this work from day to day, and to hear the amounts collected. The incidents of the past day were talked over and plans for the next day made. It was a unique experience requiring earnest thought and strenuous labor.

The total amount collected in the ten days was almost 52,000 dollars, to the great joy and delight of the participants. Since the close of the campaign the amount has been increased, and the future looks most promising.

The much-needed house, conceived, equipped, and carried on by you, your own Settlement house on the east side, is going to be transformed into a stately, up-to-date, much-needed larger building, a few blocks to the south.

Once more the call goes forth to our alumnae. Much has been accomplished, but more is needed. Do help, each and every one of you, in the great work. Those who are striving with you, in this noble undertaking, are giving of their best and will, with you, endeavor to maintain in the future the high standards of the past.

It was impossible, in the short period of ten days, to reach or visit many, who, we feel sure, would gladly contribute to the fund for the new building and its furnishing.

Every little helps. By-the-way, there are many little dime booklets not yet accounted for.

Chairman, Hunter College Alumnae Chapter.

The Fellowship of Goodwill is an association of those who earnestly believe in the brotherhood of man.

Its aim is to deepen in the life of the individual, and thus to spread in the life of the community, the spirit of goodwill to men, irrespective of difference in race or nationality, and all other distinctions which tend to become barriers. Its founders believe that this aim is not inconsistent with the best type of patriotism.

The Fellowship proposes:

To hold meetings at stated times for mutual encouragement and enlightenment.

To enjoin upon its members a certain attitude of mind, and to set up certain standards of conduct.

To further the study of comparative literature, as a means of grasping the spiritual contribution of each nation or race to the higher possessions of humanity, and also of discovering that likeness in unlikeness which may confirm our faith in world-brotherhood.

To suggest the reading of such recent books as may tend to the removal of racial and national prejudice and the broadening of knowledge and sympathy.

To keep in touch with significant movements toward the peace of the world.

The first meeting of the Fellowship will be held in the Auditorium, Monday, April 12, at 4 P. M.

Professor Cone will address the meeting on the subject of Peace and Goodwill.

All who feel an interest in this movement are urged to be present.
