Sara Delano Roosevelt Memorial House

HISTORICAL NOTE

In 1907, Sara Delano Roosevelt bought two existing row houses at 47 and 49 East 65th Street and had both houses demolished for a new building designed by Social Register artist-architect, Charles A. Platt. It would become a double townhouse. In 1908, Sara Delano Roosevelt gave one house to Franklin as a Christmas gift for him and his young family, while she resided in the house next door. The design of the house is similar to numbers 6 and 8 East 76th Street, the Ludlow-Parish houses, where, in 1905, Eleanor had been given in marriage to her distant cousin Franklin by her uncle, President Theodore Roosevelt.

The young family moved into number 49 in the autumn of 1908. They lived in the 65th Street residence whenever they were in New York City, where Franklin Roosevelt carried on his activities as a lawyer and later as an officer of an insurance firm. In August 1921, he was stricken with poliomyelitis. Upon being released from the hospital at the end of October, he went directly to the townhouse and began his convalescence in the fourth floor front bedroom. In the remaining months of 1921 and in 1922, the house became the scene of the most critical struggle in the political life of Franklin Roosevelt—a struggle between his mother who wanted him to be a recluse (because of his disability) and his wife who wanted him to continue in public life.

When Franklin Roosevelt was elected Governor of New York in 1928 he moved to Albany, visiting 49 East 65th Street only briefly. After 1928, members of Roosevelt's family lived at No. 49 only for brief periods. Sara Delano Roosevelt occupied No. 47 periodically until her death in 1941.

After the death of Sara Delano Roosevelt in 1941, the Jewish Hillel Foundation and representatives of the Catholic and Protestant laity, responded to a suggestion by Hunter College president George N. Shuster and launched a campaign to raise $50,000 to purchase the house. On March 20, 1943, Governor Thomas E. Dewey signed into law an act to incorporate the Hunter College Student Social, Community and Religious Clubs Association. The act enabled this group to acquire the houses from Franklin Roosevelt and offer them to Hunter College to foster the interest of the students in religion, comradeship, and intergroup understanding.

Six student organizations established their headquarters at Roosevelt House. These included the Hillel Foundation, the Newman Club, the Hunter College Protestant Association, the Pan-Hellenic Association, the House Plan Association, and the Toussaint L'Ouverture Society. In addition, the Alumni Association and the Association of Neighbors and Friends also maintained offices in Roosevelt House.

One of the objectives of the Hunter College Student Social, Community and Religious Clubs Association was "To serve without discrimination the educational, spiritual, charitable and social needs of the students of Hunter College with a view to fostering religious idealism in the students: to generate, encourage and promote religious activities, good fellowship and ideals of the democratic way of living, as well as the recreational and educational welfare of the students of Hunter College, in their relations with each other, with the members of the staff, the alumnae and the community...."

On November 22, 1943, members of the Hunter College Student Social, Community and Religious Clubs Association, Inc., officially opened the Sara Delano Roosevelt Memorial House.

Throughout the years a variety of cultural programs for students, alumni, faculty and friends of Hunter College have been presented at Roosevelt House. Representatives from the United Nations and from various universities often appeared on these programs. Roosevelt House was usually referred to as a little U.N.

In 1973, Roosevelt House was designated a New York City Landmark on the basis of its historical interest. It has also been placed on the National Register of Historical Sites. Roosevelt House remained operational until 1992 when it was closed for financial reasons.

In 1997 the Association voted to convey ownership of the buildings and any related assets, to the Hunter College Foundation, Inc., a 501 (c) 3 Corporation, founded in 1991 to raise funds for Hunter College and its facilities.

Transfer of ownership occurred because successful fund raising activities needed to re-open the House could not be affected by its legal owners, the Board of Directors of the Hunter College Student Social, Community, and Religious Clubs Association.

The restoration of Roosevelt House culminated in the establishment of the Roosevelt House Public Policy Institute which is dedicated to innovative approaches to teaching, research, and public programming. The institute provides a platform from which high quality scholarship effectively informs and influences public debate and public life. The mission of Roosevelt House is three-fold: to educate students in public policy and human rights, to support faculty research, and to foster creative dialogue.

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The Sara Delano Roosevelt Memorial House Collection documents the creation and development of the first college center in the United States to foster religious idealism, good fellowship, and a democratic way of life among the Protestant, Jewish and Catholic students of Hunter College, who constituted a good portion of the student body in 1943. Reciprocal appreciation of the diversity of students, faculty, and community members was cultivated through religious, recreational, and educational activities.

The historical development of the Sara Delano Roosevelt House is documented in the minutes of the Board of Directors of the Hunter College Student Social, Community and Religious Clubs Association from 1943 to 1954. Further insight into the evolution of the Roosevelt House can be attained by examining the files of the Association of Neighborhood and Friends of Hunter College and its predecessor, the Roosevelt House League, both of which functioned as supportive and fund raising bodies.

The collection spans the years 1943 to 1992, and consists of annual reports, board of directors' minutes and correspondence, constitutions and by-laws, reports, schedule of events, club histories, membership lists, proposals, publications, newspaper clippings, photographs, programs, flyers, fund raising records, and scrapbooks. Key components of the collection are associated with the activities and events that were sponsored by the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation, the Newman Club, and the Hunter College Protestant Association. Few documents remain of The House Plan Association and, the Toussaint L'Ouverture Society which was the first African-American student group at Hunter College. The Pan-Hellenic Association of Hunter College is well documented and includes constitution and by-laws, membership lists, and brief histories of many sororities. Delta Pi is one organization that is well documented with constitution and by-laws, minutes, pledge manuals, and publications.

The records of the Sara Delano Roosevelt Memorial House collection provide remarkable documentation of a facility that fostered religious toleration, social activity, and understanding among the students of Hunter College for almost fifty years.

SERIES DESCRIPTION

Series I –The Hunter College Student Social, Community and Religious Clubs Association

Subseries 1.1 Administration

Subseries 1.2 The Roosevelt House League

Subseries 1.3 The Association of Neighbors and Friends of Hunter College

Subseries 1.1 highlights the administration of the Hunter College Student Social, Community and Religious Clubs Association, Inc. Included are Board of Directors' correspondence, membership lists, minutes, constitution and by-laws, incorporation papers, fund raising statistics, publications, and Roosevelt House history. Subseries 1.2 documents the creation of the Roosevelt House League which operated as an unincorporated organization and worked on behalf of the broad purposes of the Roosevelt House. In 1951, The Roosevelt House League changed its name to the Association of the Neighbors and Friends of Hunter College and became incorporated under the laws of the State of New York. Subseries 1.3 documents the name change and underscores the activities of the Association as an advisory/fund raising support group. All three subseries are arranged alphabetically, then chronologically within most of the folders.

Series II – Activities and Events

Series II documents the multitudinous affairs that were sponsored by the religious and secular student organizations of Hunter College. Examples of important affairs that took place at the Roosevelt House include the Dedication of the Sara Delano Roosevelt Memorial House (1943); the memorial assembly for Franklin D. Roosevelt (1946); and the Helmut Brauss concert (1957). This series is arranged alphabetically, then chronologically within most of the folders.

Series III – Constituent Groups

Subseries 3.1 Religious Clubs

Subseries 3.2 Social Clubs

Subseries 3.1 consists of records associated with The B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation, the Hunter College Protestant Association and the Newman Club. Each of these clubs served to meet the spiritual needs of their constituents and sponsored events that encouraged religious idealism, good fellowship, and a democratic way of life. The bulk of the materials in this subseries relate to the Hunter College Protestant Association. Unfortunately The B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation and the Newman Club are survived by too few records. Subseries 3.2 features clubs and sororities that utilized Roosevelt House for meetings and functions. Researchers will find the histories, membership lists, and constitution and by-laws for specific clubs and sororities. The Pan-Hellenic Association of Hunter College is well documented with constitutions and by-laws, minutes, and selected reports. Of the college sororities that are delineated in the collection, Delta Pi has the most comprehensive coverage. Both subseries are arranged alphabetically, then chronologically within most of the folders.

Addenda

Series I –The Hunter College Student Social, Community and Religious Clubs Association, Inc.

Minutes from the Board of Directors from 1983 - 1996, and correspondence from President Jacqueline Grennan Wexler from May 1973 - May 1978, were added to the Sara Delano Roosevelt Memorial House Collection after it was processed.

Series IV – Restoration of the Roosevelt House

This series was created to encompass materials that are related to the conceptualization, planning and eventual restoration of Roosevelt House. Included here are proposals, reports, memoranda, correspondence and brochures from 1992 through 2009.

The restoration of Roosevelt House culminated in the establishment of the Roosevelt House Public Policy Institute which is dedicated to innovative approaches to teaching, research, and public programming. The institute provides a platform from which high quality scholarship effectively informs and influences public debate and public life. The mission of Roosevelt House is three-fold: to educate students in public policy and human rights, to support faculty research, and to foster creative dialogue.
