BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

George Nauman Shuster was born on August 27, 1894 in Lancaster, Wisconsin. He was the first of three children born to Anthony Schuster, a contractor and a bridge builder, and Elizabeth Nauman. He was the grandson of Peter and Mary (Wilhelm) Shuster, and great-grandson of Henry Shuster, who came from Saarland (later part of Germany) in 1848 and settled in Iowa. The Schusters and Wilhelms on his father's side and the Naumans and Gimbels on his mother's had all immigrated to the United States from Germany in the nineteenth century. George's two sisters, Catherine and Mary, were born in 1896 and 1904 respectively.

George Nauman Shuster attended St. Clement's Grade School from 1898 to 1906, where he received an excellent education from the School Sisters of Notre Dame. George was an avid reader and had a good command of English and German. He was quite adept at solving mathematical problems and performed well in most of his subjects.

In September 1907, George was sent to St. Lawrence College at Mt. Calvary, about 15 miles northeast of Fond du Lac. While at St. Lawrence College, Shuster developed an appreciation of the traditional classical subjects of English, history, mathematics, Latin, Greek, German, French, rhetoric, religion, and basic science. Classes were small in size and this fostered a good rapport with his instructors. Upon completing his studies at St. Lawrence College, Shuster enrolled in the University of Notre Dame and received his B.A. degree in 1915.

With World War I on the horizon Shuster had hoped to enter West Point, but instead worked as a reporter in Chicago for one year. He subsequently entered the U.S. Army and served for 18 months as a sergeant of the Intelligence Section, G.H.Q., and then as an interpreter in the Army of Occupation. Upon completion of his military service, he attended the University of Poitiers in France and received the Certificat d'Aptitude in 1919.

Upon returning from Europe Shuster accepted a position teaching English at the University of Notre Dame. He subsequently received his M.A. degree in French literature in 1920, and became the head of the English Department until 1924. In 1924, Shuster moved to New York City and secured a one-year teaching position with the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn. During this period Shuster became involved with an upstart weekly magazine which was dedicated to Catholic religious principles. He served as an associate editor of Commonweal from 1925 to 1929, and as managing editor from 1929 to 1937.

From 1925 to 1926 Shuster pursued graduate work at Columbia University. From 1925 to 1935 he taught English as a professor at St. Joseph's College for Women, and found time to edit Newman-Prose and Poetry (1925); the Malta Books (1930); and the Century Catholic College Texts in English from 1932 to 1950. Between 1922 and 1930, Shuster demonstrated an interest in writing by publishing five major works revolving around English literature and the Catholic Church.

In 1930, Shuster studied at the Hochschule fur Politik in Berlin and received fellowships from the Vereinigung Carl Schurz (1929-1930), the Oberlaender Trust (1932), and the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation (1933-1934).

From 1937 to 1939 Shuster was a Fellow of the Social Research Council of Columbia University and received a Carnegie Corporation grant to study the Weimar Republic and the Center Party. When Shuster returned from Germany in July 1939, he was named Dean of Hunter College and became Acting-President in September 1939, when Eugene A. Colligan took an unexpected leave of absence.

Dr. George Nauman Shuster was inaugurated as the fifth president of Hunter College of the City of New York on October 10, 1940 and served until August 31, 1960. Concurrent with Dr. Shuster's installation was the dedication of the new college facility at Park Avenue and Sixty-Eight Street on October 8, 1940. The sixteen-story edifice provided state-of-the-art accommodations for college administrators, faculty, students, and for the Board of Higher Education. The facility was initially designed to accommodate about 10,000 students as well as 675 pupils from the Hunter College Elementary School. The new building was well received by the public and within a short time came to be known as the "Palace on Park Avenue."

From June 1950 to December 1951, Dr. Shuster was on leave of absence from Hunter College and accepted the assignment as Land Commissioner for Bavaria, Germany. Dr. Shuster served as representative of the high commissioner to the Bavarian government, and was responsible for the promotion of U.S. policies in the fields of politics, economics, education and jurisprudence.

During President Shuster's tenure Hunter College's enrollment grew from 11,000 to 17,000. He was instrumental in developing the School of General Studies; in acquiring and maintaining the Sara Delano Roosevelt Memorial House as a student social and religious club center; in establishing the Hunter College Concert Bureau Series; in developing the Department of Home Economics, the Division of Nursing Education, and the Graduate Program of Teacher Education; and in establishing the Office of the Dean of Faculty, the Bureau of Educational and Vocational Guidance, and the Hunter College Choir as a notable musical organization.

Following his retirement from Hunter College in 1960, Dr. Shuster became an assistant to the president of the University of Notre Dame and professor emeritus of English at the South Bend campus. Dr. Shuster also assumed the directorship of the Center for the Study of Man in Contemporary Society until his retirement in 1971.

Dr. George Nauman Shuster passed away on January 25, 1977, and left an impeccable legacy as an administrator, writer, and teacher. What was most remarkable about Dr. Shuster was his disposition for seeking truth in life. This was evident throughout his private and professional life and through his numerous addresses, essays, and publications.
